GOLDEN GATE ITEMS

Return of an Old and Respected Citizen.

HARRINGTON & YOUNG'S NEW GROCERY STORE

Other Items That are of Interest to People Both old and Young.

Golden Gate

J. Mylar, who is now absent on official duty at Folsom State Prison and whose wife conducts a dry goods business here, making this her home on account of the educational advantages afforded by the place, will return here about May 1st, he having secured a position that will enable him to reside permanently with his family.

The W. A. P. A. of this place will give an entertainment at Klinkner Hall this evening. The amusements of the evening will consist of tableaux, musical and literary features, dancing and a supper, with various "all fools" exercises, all for the trifling sum of 15 cents.

The Foresters' banquet and ball, given last Saturday evening for the members of the order and their families at Klinkner Hall, was a great success. All formalities were thrown aside and eating, drinking, dancing and general sociability reigned supreme.

Young & Harrington, the new grocery firm here, are busily engaged in fitting up quarters for their business in the O'Neil block, and expect to be able to invite public patronage about April 15th. The Young family, who are members of this firm are the postoffice officials here, and this institution will occupy quarters in the new store.

The Sunday school of the M. E. church will hold its annual Easter service in that edifice next Sunday morning. In the evening the Epworth League will give a concert in the same place, at which several numbers of the choice music for which that organization has become noted will be rendered.

The next monthly tea of the Ladies' Aid Society will occur at the residence of Mrs. Carr on McKee street on April 8th.

At the recent entertainment given by Miss Bertie Lucker to the Epworth League, numerous games such as chess checkers, authors, etc. were played for prizes along progressive lines. Miss Ada Burns was in every case the winner of these prizes.

Roadmaster McCarty is putting Eleventh street through and in shape for travel from Powell to Doyle street.

John Volner who has been visiting his father here has returned to his business in Modesto.

Mr. C. A. Miller is making some marked improvement in the line of building and repairing upon his premises here.

Charles Krueger, a youth who ran away from his home here about nine months ago, has been heard from. In a letter to a friend here he states that he is now working on a ranch in Texas.

Miss Minnie Storms, one of our most popular young ladies, is quite seriously ill with a throat trouble.

Dr. Lay, who some time since came here from Colorado for the benefit of his wife's health, will shortly remove to Fresno, hoping that the warmer climate there may prove better, though she has improved in health here.

The Site Undecided.

The Board of Regents held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon with Governor Budd in the chair. Three new members were present for the first time: Lieutenant Governor Jeter, John F. Budd and E. A. Denicke, President of the Mechanics' Institute. Most of the afternoon was taken up with a discussion of the location of the Wilmerding School. The San Francisco committee presented its proposition for cooperation with the Lick School through J. D. Phelan, Alfred Bouvier and Horace Davis.

A committee from Stockton consisting of H. J. Corcoran, F. M. West, H. C. Shaw, P. B. Fraser, I. D. Woods and James Marsh were present. Mr. Corcoran made a strong speech in favor of their city, and said that if the board would indicate what amount they would require for buildings he believed the people of Stockton would subscribe it. Mrs. James Gillis, whose husband offered twenty acres at Stockton addressed the board.

W. R. Davis, R. M. Fitzgerald, and P. E. Bowles, appeared for Alameda county. Mr. Davis said that with 330,000 population San Francisco already had three industrial schools, while Oakland and her suburbs, with 110,000 population, had none.

The Committee on Sites had reported in favor of the Temescal property, but it was the sense of most of the members of the Board that they should have more information regarding the organization and needs of the school. It was finally decided to postpone the whole question to the next regular meeting in May.

Superintendent Eryes of the Throop Polytechnic Institute at Pasadena, President Merrill of the Lick School, Principal Buchanan of the Coggswell and Principal Bush of the San Francisco Polytechnic school will be invited to attend.

Regent Rogers stated that he had understood that it was probable that the Wilmerding bequest would be increased by gifts from one of the legatees.

Regent Houghton said that a movement was on foot to raise subscriptions sufficient to purchase the Pioneer Woolen Mills property with sparlaus grounds and large buildings, if the Board would accept that as a site.

NOT REPORTED.

The Railroad Committee not Still at Work.

West Berkeley Progressive Club

The regular meeting of the West Berkeley Progressive Club was held last evening at its rooms on University avenue.

Quite a number of the members were present, and one visitor from East Berkeley, Mr. N. T. Whiting, was also present.

The regular routine business was gone through with, and then President Hadlen presented the following letter:

MR CHAS. HADLEN, PRESIDENT WEST BERKELEY IMPROVEMENT CLUB:
Dear Sir—Your Committees are still earnestly laboring, with plenty of labor ahead. We are unable to make a full report on any of the four matters placed in our hands. To make a partial report at present we deem to be inadvisable. Under the circumstances we ask for ample time, and hope to achieve some beneficial results.
Yours truly,
CHAS. A. BAILEY, Chairman.

Mr. Niehaus said that it was not possible for the corporations which the committee had been interviewing to make their places known on such short notice. It was a business proposition that had to be canvassed to see whether there was any prospects for an adequate return upon the investment. Private individuals were careful about making their business plans known, and corporations were more so.

The matter of procuring teams to take voters to the Kellogg school was referred to the committee with full power to act.

The matter of opening Sixth street was discussed, and it was the general opinion that unless the property owners took same steps in the matter immediately that the Board of Trustees force the matter at their next meeting, and Trustee Hoff was asked to call the matter up.

The question of building a public wharf at West Berkeley was discussed, and the Club was unanimous in its intentention of getting up a petition asking the Board of Trustees to call an election for bonds to the amount of $40,000 for wharf purposes.

The Club decided to vote in favor of the $60,000 school bonds.

There being no further business the Club adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

The City of Paris store is known all over the Pacific Coast. The proprietors, G. Verdier & Co., are never in the rear. Everything in their line is kept up to date. They always have a good supply of the very best of everything and ladies find it a pleasure to do their shopping with them. Attention is called to their sale going on of ladies' hosiery and knit summer underwear. The prices quoted are extremely low for such fine quality of goods.

HIGH WATER MARK.

Thirty Thousand Notch Almost Reached.

MISS HAMLIN STILL LEADS WITH 29,585 VOTES.

Professor Warnick Receives Over Eight Hundred Votes To-day—Contest Getting Livelier.

Votes Rolling Up

There is no cessation in the contest for the most popular teacher, and the votes continue to roll into the GAZETTE office by the thousand. We understand that there are several dark horses in the field and that their friends are getting subscribers in order to get the number of votes that go with each subscriber, and that when they have got their candidate in the lead then they will spring their votes. This is fair and legitimate, but we desire that the names of the new subscribers be sent to this office in order that they may be served with the paper. You can reserve the votes upon them until such time as you desire to announce them.

By all means send in the names of the subscribers for they will want to get the paper in order to see how the contest is progressing.

Two new teachers were added to the list to-day, and they may yet become important factors in the contest. They both come from the Kellogg school, and while one of them only started with two votes, the other, —Miss Shaw—started with 665 votes.

Professor Warnick, of the San Pablo school, got a move on to-day and jumped up toward the thousand mark, he now being credited with 904 votes.

The contest, while it is quite spirited is only just begun. There are just two months now before the contest ends, and in that time there will be many changes in the result of each candidate. Miss Hamlin and Mrs. Wilkes are dividing the honors of first place at the present time, and the result of the vote so far shows that they have many friends who are working for them. These friends will not let go until the contest has closed, so we may look out for lively times between now and the first of June.

It is well to be in the contest, for to the fortunate teacher it means an outing of a couple of weeks with board, lodging and transportation to and from the springs paid.

Every teacher would like to take an outing during vacation under these conditions. All have an equal chance and it only remains for their friends to cut out the coupons each day and fill them up and send to this office. Monthly, quarterly, semi-annual and yearly subscriptions will also count a large number of votes as may be seen by consulting the contest advertisement on another page.

In the boys and girls contest for the bicycle, shotgun and other prizes, the rivalry is getting great and strong. Edward Niehaus still maintains the lead, but the other boys are crawling up on him rapidly.

Only one month remains for this contest, and the boys dont want to lose any time. They have got to put in their best licks from now on, and see that they get a subscription from every one who is known not to be a subscriber to the GAZETTE.

We have been compelled to add new carriers to our delivery force, and also change some, in order that every person who subscribes may get his paper regularly and on time every evening.

The vote today stands as follows:

Berkeley Orchestra.

The third concert of this year's series is to be given by the Berkeley Orchestral Society on Thursday evening, April 16th. A specially attractive program is to be offered, and a delightful musical evening is promised. The Delta Upsilon male quartet will sing, as will also Wm. N. Harris, tenor soloist. Miss Helene M. Johnson, who charmed her listeners in the recent operetta "Snow White" will render some selections which will give a much better opportunity for the audience to realize the beauty and strength of her voice than was possible in the somewhat limited range of the operetta.

The pieces to be given by the orchestra are gems of harmony, and as this energetic organization has established its reputation for always pleasing its audiences, it is a foregone conclusion that no one will go away dissatisfied. Every audience thus far has been a large increase over the preceding one, and it looks as though Shattuck Hall will hardly be capable of holding the attendance, if it is increased proportionately over the last audience.

Fall in Beer.

At about noon today a span of horses attached to the Viking non-intoxicating beer wagon took freight on the corner of Channing way and Fulton street, and ran away. They soon struck a snag in turning a corner which caused them to stop, but not until they had broken the wagon pole and distributed the beer over the street, much to the delight of a crowd of small boys, who were soon engaged in sampling it.

PROF. PUTZKER

Tells the San Francisco People All About Faust.

Study of Faust.

Professor Putzker gave the second hour in his course of six expository readings at the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The lectures are proving to be the most popular in this season's University extension course. As the Professor pointed out of the windows, making a poetical comparison to illustrate Faust's mood, it all seemed so real that almost anyone listening would have expected to see Faust and Wagner on the green without, amid the motley throng which was so distasteful to the melancholy spiritual student and so delightful to the pedantic Wagner.

Yesterday's reading took the listeners through the scene in the country with its various types of merry-makers, back to Faust's smoky study, where the black poodle followed him, disappeared and in his stead appeared Mephistopheles, who could not get out on account of the sacred pentagram, but called to his aid an evil spirit and the wicked mouse which gnawed the pentagram and permitted Mephistopheles to escape.

The next lecture will take place Tuesday afternoon, April 7th.

HE WANTED AN OFFICE

An Old Time West Berkeley Politician.

MAKES A FIGHT FOR AN OFFICE NOT VACANT.

He and Friends Celebrate What They Thought Sure Was a Winning Fight.

Celebrated to Soon.

On Saturday evening last, a gentleman of West Berkeley who has long been noted as a politician, announced to his friends that he intended to be one of the dispensers of justice in West Berkeley. In fact he stated that his appointment as Justice of the Peace was just as good as made and that it would be announced by the Board of Supervisors on the following Monday.

Of course he was congratulated by his friends on all sides, for they will nor congratulate a man who is successful. These congratulations made the would be Justice of the Peace feel in good spirits, so he immediately called upon a number of his friends to assist him in celebrating the event by painting the town a carmine hue.

He soon had a number of friends who were perfectly willing to imbibe the fluid that comes from bottles behind a bar in honor of his advancement, and the celebration was kept up long into the night.

When the clocks chimed out the hour of midnight, the would-be Justice of the Peace bade his friends good morning, and informed them that his appointment would surely be made on Monday. He then cautioned them against any familiarity with the court, as on and after Monday he could not be one of them in convivial spirits any more, as he would be compelled to uphold the dignity of the law.

Monday came, and his friends met in the evening to offer him their congratulations once more and to hail him as Judge, but to their surprise he came not.

A committee was finally sent to his home to learn from him why it was that he did not come forth and meet them and allow them to give him a proper send off.

The old citizen, noted politician and would-be justice of the peace informed his friends that "he had the matter all fixed with the supervisors, but that justice James had not resigned, and there was no vacancy."

I read in the Agrovate, said the disappointed office seeker, that Justice James had resigned and I lost no time until I had the matter fixed so that I would be successful. D—n an unreliable newspaper, anyhow.

Thus another candidate for distinguished honors has been disappointed, and thrust down among the "might have beens."

Lorin.

Mrs. Tisdale of Prince street, who was very low a few days since with pleuro-pneumonia, is now pronounced out of danger. An expert in such difficulties was summoned from San Francisco and under his directions the hemorrhage was checked.

The Peralta hook and ladder tug-of-war team has made a match with an outside team, in which much general interest is being taken. The Peralta boys are actively training under Captain D. S. Adams, instructed by foreman D. J. Keane, who is an experienced fireman, formerly of Porland, Or. Mr. Keane has so much confidence in the mettle and strength of his team that he has wagered $20 that it will win the tug-of-war match.

Mr. Wright, residing here, who has been for some years mate of the steamer Piedmont, has just been commissioned captain and placed in charge of the steamer Solano.

D. H. Wilmot has recently established in Lorin a complete plant devoted exclusively to the manufacture of porter and ale, and is succeeding in his business in a very marked degree. He has erected proper buildings and has put in a complete outfit for the work he has in hand. The goods he turns out are said to be equal in quality to the best English brands, a result which Mr. Wilmot attributes to his long experience, and particularly to the peculiar excellency of the water that he finds ready for use here.

Miss Addie Sidney of San Francisco is visiting friends here.

George I. Eaton is putting up a very comfortable residence on the corner of Alice and Prince streets, and now has it well under way towards completion.

Mr. O. Knox, a capitalists of San Leandro, and his wife spent Sunday with Druggist Smith of this place.

W. G. Moran, the real estate man here, has, within the past few days, sold five pieces of valuable property in Lorin to outside parties.

Rev. Ben. F. Sargent, formerly of Santa Rosa, has been unanimously elected to the pastorship of the Park Congregational Church here. This gentleman comes well recommended from the various churches that he has acceptably served, and the people of this church are much pleased with having secured his services. He will at once remove his family this place, and take up his work.

Mrs. Daniel Middelstorh, who has been very ill for some months is now slowly recovering, much to the satisfaction of her many friends.

The quarterly meeting of the German Methodist church here will be held on next Thursday evening, and the address of the occasion will be delivered by Rev. Guth, the presiding elder, who is a resident of this place.

Next Sunday there will be an Easter service at the Park Congregational church, which will be handsomely decorated with the beautiful flowers for which Lorin is noted. Rev. Harrison, of the Home Missionary Society, will officiate.

ROBINA REED

Is Released From the County Jail Conditionally.

Saved From the Magdalen Asylum.

Robina Reed, the West Berkeley girl who was arrested last week for associating with evil companions, and who was placed in the County Jail booked for Whittier, has been released upon condition that her grandmother would take care of her, and keep her from evil associations in the future.

The girl would undoubtedly have been sent to Whittier, if it had not been for the fact that she was in a delicate condition, which barred her from that institution.

As her grandmother stated that she would look after the girl's welfare, and keep her under restraint in the future, the Court decided that that course would be preferable to sending her to the Magdalen asylum, and accordingly she was released.

Under the auspices of the first Unitarian Church, of Berkeley, a reading by the author, entitled "The Prophet," embodying the songs of creation, will be given with interludes from the sonatas of Beethoven, in Stiles' Hall, on Saturday evening, April 4, at 8 o'clock.

Some time ago the large tank belonging to the Standard Soap company, which was located over its artesian well on Fourth street, fell down. The company has now erected a stand pipe over the well, and the water is pumped direct from the well to the works on Third street.

A BRUTAL MURDER

Committed by a Wife and Her Paramour.

TODAY IS PRINCE BISMARCK'S BIRTHDAY.

Thousands of People Assembled to Do the Veteran Prince Honor on This Day.

Brutal Murder.

Stockton, April 1st.—Andrea Vacaressa, a boot black, who formerly kept a stand in front of Eshbach's saloon, was murdered last night. His wife is now in jail on suspicion of having been implicated in the homicide. The officers are confident that Vacaressa was killed by her and her paramour, and are now looking for the latter. Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning Mrs. Vacaressa rushed into a neighbor's house, saying that burglars were killing her husband. When the house was entered Vacaressa was found dead, strangled by a piece of clothes line around his neck.

Eighty-One.

Friedrichsruhe, Apr. 1.—The eighty-first anniversary of the birth of Prince Bismarck was celebrated today with great enthusiasm. The weather is clear and cold. From the railway station to the postoffice, the castle gates and buildings generally flags are flying in profusion. By noon there were evidences of a general celebration. Crowds of villagers and strangers assembled at the entrances to the castle park, which were guarded by gendarmes, who rigidly excluded the public. Cart loads of flowers arrived at the castle, together with a great number of presents for the ex-Chancellor.

After the Glee Club Men.

The University Glee Club is again in the throes of a controversy. Last time it was the Mandolin Club that had a grievance, but now the student body is arrayed against it.

The trouble has all come about because some of the students object to what they call the "close corporation" proclivities of the aggregation of songsters. They say the Glee Club does not represent the University and ought to be brought under the control of the University.

Quite a feeling has grown up over the matter. The glee men expected some action to be taken against them at the meeting of the Associated Students yesterday, but owing to the fact that the meeting was absorbed with athletics nothing was done in the matter.

At present the Glee Club has no connection with the college except that its members are drawn from the students of the University. It elects its own manager, and never consults the students as to its concerts, tours or general policy. The glee men say in defense of their organization that they are not supported by the collegians as they should be, and that even when a concert is given in Berkeley the majority of the audience is composed of the town's people.

The regular conference of the Congregational Ministers will be held in Berkeley at the First Congregational Church on April 14th. The case of Dr. Brown will in all probability be taken up at this meeting and he will either be exonerated or the conference will withdraw its fellowship from Dr. Brown. This is equal to expelling him from the ministry.

TWO BAD BOYS

Run Away From Home to Become Road Agents.

Runaway Boys.

Two boys, Robert Donnoly, aged 10 years, and George Richards, aged 13 years, who live in the Carlton tract, near the Narrow Guage Railroad and who go to the Lorin school, have been playing truant lately.

Yesterday they were returned to school and were punished. They did not take their punishment good naturedly, but informed their companions that they proposed to go on the road and become highwaymen, and that they would not go to school any more nor take any more lickings. True to their statement after school was over they disappeared and have not been seen since. Their parents have searched everywhere for them. This morning they notified the officers who have thus far been unable to locate them.

The oldest boy is dressed in a brown coat and knees pants; the younger boy is similarly dressed. Any information concerning the boys will be thankfully received. The information can be sent to the Marshal or any of his deputies.

Deputy Marshal Rawson says that there are a number of persons in West Berkeley who are limbering themselves up in anticipation of securing the appointment in his stead, but they need not go into very heavy training as he does not intend to resign, but will remain right in Berkeley and continue on as deputy marshal.

In our article on "Oil as Fuel," published in last night's issue, we stated that the agent was Mr. George H. Martin. This was a mistake as it should have read Mr. George H. Larkin.

THAT CIVIC CIRCULAR.

In last night's issue of the GAZETTE we published a copy of the circular issued by the so-called Civic Federation, and which it intended to keep shady until the night before election, and then spring it upon the public in the night as it did before.

The circular states that "every citizen of Berkeley believes in providing ample and comfortable quarters for public schools, and that no tax is more freely paid in all American and especially in California."

After making this statement the circular states that "the people are not so blind as to mortgage their homes in order to gratify the expensive fancies of our rulers."

This is free America and we desire to inform the makers of the Civic Federation circular, that we have no rulers in this country and more especially in Berkeley.

Here we have a Board of Education composed of gentlemen who are leading citizens and property owners of the town, who give gratuitously their time in looking after the needs of our schools, and they are far better able to judge of the wants of the public schools than are the briefless lawyer, the retired contractor and the real estate dealer who comprise the Civic Federation, and we believe that the voters of Berkeley will on Saturday next show their confidence in the Board of Education by carrying the bond proposition.

The circular goes on to state that the immediate needs of the school department will and can be amply provided for by levying a special tax for $20,000 or $25,000.

This is an absolute lie, and the getters up of the circular knew it when they wrote it, but they chuckled to themselves and said, "This is where we fool the people and get them to come our way."

They know, and everybody else knows, that a special tax could not be levied until the 1st of June, and that the money under such levy would not be available until the 1st of May, 1897. Voters who have any inclination toward the special tax levy can here see where the cards lie. The trio who got up this circular are not sincere. They do not want any new school buildings. All they desire is to block all efforts to get new school buildings by offering some subterfuge to the people, which, on its face, and without investigation, looks reasonable. This same trio would, if the matter of obtaining the money for the new school buildings by direct taxation come up tomorrow, get out another circular and denounce the scheme as an attempt to bankrupt the people by excessive and unbearable taxation.

The circular in another section states that Berkeley now has two unused sites upon which to erect school houses. This is true. The town owns a site on University avenue next to the Town Hall, and another on Dana street, and we wish that it owned a dozen more in different portions of the town, but unfortunately it does not. The two sites that it does own, however, are not available at the present time for there is no need of schools in their location.

There is need, however, for a school building on Dwight way, another in North Berkeley. The old tumble down portion of the San Pablo school, which has been in use for over twenty years should be replaced. An addition must be made to the Lorin school before the beginning of next term in order to accommodate the children there who are now compelled to lose half a day right along. The estimate for these new school buildings and the furnishing of the same are very conservative, and no good citizen should object to voting bonds in the sum of $60,000.

The circular in another paragraph states that 312 citizens signed a petition to the Board of Trustees asking them to call an election for a special tax of $20,000.

This petition was drawn up and circulated by the trio who are the Civic Federation, and it was presented to the Board of Trustees after the Board of Education had called the bond election, and was only intended as an obstruction to prevent an election of any kind.

In the last paragraph of the circular the intentions of the Board of Education are impugned by the statement that the Board had only designated one polling place. It says: "Of course there is an object in this aside from economy." The trio who got up the circular knew that under the school law the Board was powerless to name more than one polling place, but the slur had to be thrown out in order to make people believe that the Board of Education was doing it for a sinister purpose. This has now been exploded and disproven by the press and good citizens of the town, and we feel positive that no voter will be misled by the circular, which the getters up of are afraid to sign or acknowledge, but will go to the polls on Saturday next and cast their votes in favor of bonds.

The West Berkeley Progressive Club met last evening and several hundred Civic Federation circulars were distributed among the members. An attempt was made to find out where they came from, but no one would father bringing them to the meeting. Ex-Trustee Whiting was present but he denied bringing the circulars to the meeting. He was accused of being the author of the circular, but this he denied and stated positively that Thomas F. Graber was the author of the circular. The public are pretty well convinced who the authors are consequently the denial of these parties will not do any good.

The Advocate in its columns last night insinuated that N. T. Whiting was the author of the Civic Federation circular, although it did not mention his name. The Advocate knows who the Civic Federation is because it printed its circulars at the last bond election and looked after their distribution. Mr. Whiting does not relish having the blame shifted to him so he comes right out in the meeting and states that it is Mr. Thos. Graber of the Advocate who got up the circulars. He made the same charge at the last election and it was never denied by that gentleman, hence the public must believe that both Mr. Graber and Mr. Whiting are the Civic Federation, and are consequently enemies of the bonds.

The Los Angeles Times of Sunday came to us in three parts of thirty-six pages, filled with entertaining matter concerning the southern part of the State. The Times has become a great newspaper, and has an immense circulation in the section in which it is published. It is there to stay and it will do an immense amount of good for Thrifty and growing Southern California. One of its specialties is the publishing every day of the local news of the leading towns in all the southern counties, and this brings it in touch with every section of Southern California.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.

Is Now Offered to Those Who Have Money to Invest in a Legitimate Enterprise.

The Alameda and Santa Barbara Development Co. which was incorporated for the purpose of developing oil wells at Summerland, have now decided to offer 1000 shares of their capital stock at $1.50 per share, the par value of which is $3.00. The Company have now 4 oil wells producing 50 barrels per day, besides a water well which will save an outlay of $15 per month besides having an abundance of water to sell to others, it being the only water well in the country.

No effort has been made heretofore to dispose of stock, but on account of the increasing demand for oil and the recent advance in price they are anxious to put down at least 10 more wells as soon as possible and more money is needed for that purpose. These whole output is sold faster than can be delivered besides offers have been made for all they can produce at the well. When their property is fully developed they expect to produce 400 barrels per day, as they have sufficient territory for 40 wells.

There being an underground flow to the ocean, the supply is inexhaustible.

Summerland is situated six miles south of Santa Barbara, on the Ventura Ranch railroad, and on the completion of the gap from Elwood north will be on the main line to Los Angeles.

The company owning property on both sides of the railroad extending to the ocean gives them splendid facilities for shipping by rail or water, as a wharf is about to be built, there being a natural harbor, opposite their property.

They are fully equipped with steam power, pumping plant, and other machinery necessary for the work and also tank room for 700 barrels.

They are not wanting money to prospect at other people's expense, but to develop that which is an absolute certainty, and can be vouched for by the most reliable authority.

The Company is composed of well known business men of Berkeley.

GOLDEN LIGHT.

I have lost my joy, my face, my life,
Hope, love, and everything for this:
I know the sky is as near the floor,
The sea is been small,
That thing found, the lights around the shore
You have been mine before—
How long ago I may not know:
But this, when at that swallow's soar
Your neck turned so,
Some evil did fall—I knew it all of yore.

Has this been thus? In fear?
And I fall and this time's varying flight
Still with sad eyes our loves restore
In death's despite
And day and night yield one delight once more?

—Dante Gabriel Rossetti.

ON A BATTLEFIELD.

I remember our running through the wood, and how our caution bids vanished as they tore down the branches of the hawthorn bushes as we broke through them. Beyond the border of the forest we could see something red flashing here and there. Sidcroft, a young soldier from the First battalion, suddenly fell to the ground, and silently looked at me with big, frightened eyes. From his mouth poured a wave of blood. Yes, I remember it very well.

I also remember the Turk I noticed when we reached the clearing. He was tall and stout, and I was short and thin. I ran straight toward him. Something snapped. Something huge, as it seemed to me, flew past me. I heard it whistle. "He has shot at me," I thought. But he, with a wall of pain, leaned against the hawthorn bush with a blow I knocked the musket out of his hands. With another I thrust his bayonet far away. I heard him moan, and then I rushed on.

Our men cried, "Hurrah!" Some fell. Some gave fire. When I had left the wood, I also fired several times right on the plain. Suddenly the "Hurrah!" grew louder, and we all rushed on—that is, not we, but our men, for I remained. This seemed strange to me, and yet more strange that everything had disappeared and the noise had stopped. I heard nothing, but I saw a bit of blue color before me, very likely the sky. After awhile this also had vanished.

I was never in such a funny state before. I am lying, it seems, on my stomach, and I see before me a bit of ground. A few grasses, little broken pieces of last year's horse, and some ants crawling over them—this is all my world. And all this I see with but one eye, the other is closed with something hard—perhaps a branch on which my head rests. I feel very uncomfortable, and I want to move, but I do not understand why I am not able to. Time passes. I hear the noise of the grasshopper, the buzzing of the bee. At last I made an effort to free my right hand from under my body, and leaning with both hands on the ground I try to stand on my knees. Something sharp and quick as lightning passes through my body, and once more I fall. Once more darkness and nothingness.

I awake. How is it that I now see the stars shining brightly on the dark blue Bulgarian sky? Am I not in my tent? Why am I not there? I try to move, but I feel a torturing pain in my leg. Yes, I have been wounded in the battle. Dangerously? I touch my leg where I feel the pain. Both legs are covered with blood. When I touch them, the pain grows stronger. There is a noise in my ears, and my head is heavy. In a confused way I understand that I am hurt in both legs.

How did it happen? Why did they not pick me up? Is it possible that the Turks have beaten us? I try to remember what has happened to me, first in a confused manner and afterward more clearly. I remember now that we were not beaten at all, but we began to run and that I had to keep down on the plain near the hill. Our commander had pointed to the plain. "Boys, we shall be there," he had called out. And we were there; that proves that we are not beaten. But why did they leave me? This is an open place where they could have seen me. They fired so often very likely I am not alone. I must turn my head and see. I can do so easily as this time I had fallen on my back—this accounts for my seeing the stars instead of the ground.

I raise myself into a sitting position, but this is hard work, when both legs are wounded. Several times I have to rest, and the pain brings tears into my eyes. At last I sit up. Above me are the dark blue sky and the twinkling stars; around me seems something dark and high. My hair stands on end. I have fallen into the bushes, and they have not found me. But how did I get here, when they shot at me on the plain? Very likely, driven by pain, I had rushed on. Strange! Now I am not able to move, and then I could run so far.

The big stars have grown paler and the little ones have disappeared; the moon is rising. How good to be at home! I hear strange sounds. It seems that, after all, there is somebody. Yes, that was a groan. Is there somebody near me, also forgotten, with wounded legs or a ball in his stomach? No, the groans are too near, for there is nobody so close to me. Good heavens, it is myself! Slow, painting groans! Am I really so sick? Very likely. But I hardly realize the pain, because there is a mist in my head, it feels like lead. I had better lie down and sleep. Sleep! Shall I ever wake up? I hardly care.

Suddenly a broad streak of moonlight illuminates the place where I am about to sleep, and I see something dark and big lying at a few steps from me. Something shining in the light cast by the moon. I recognize a brass button. Very likely a dead body or a wounded man. All the same to me. I lie down.

No, it cannot be! Our men have not left the field. They have beaten the Turks and have remained in this position. But why do I not hear the sound of voices or the crackling of fire? But then I am so weak that I am not able to strain my ears. Surely they are here.

"Help, help!" I call out.

Wild, hoarse sounds burst from my chest. They remain unanswered. All is silent around me. The moon has a mournful expression on her round face. I remember the bright buttons. "If he were alive, he would have heard my call. He is dead. Is he ours or a Turk? Oh, God, if it were not, all the same!" And sleep closes my weary eyes.

I am lying with shut eyes, although I awoke long ago. Through the thick branches of the hawthorn I feel the heat of the sun, and I do not care to open them. It is better not to move at all. Yesterday—was it yesterday?—I was wounded. One day has passed, others will pass, and I shall die. How good it would be not to think, but this is impossible. Thoughts and remembrances come to my mind and besides it will soon be over. They will publish that our losses were of no consequence. "Wounded, so many; killed, Ivanoff, a private from the volunteers." Perhaps they will not put the name. Simply, "Killed, one." A private! As if they would say "a dog."

It was long ago. All my life—that is, the life when I was not lying here—seems so long ago. I walked in the street where I saw a crowd of people looking at something white, covered with blood. It was a pretty little dog, which had been killed by the tramway. A man came and carried it away.

Will they carry me away too? Or shall I remain here to die? How sweet this seems to me! When I saw the little dog that day, I had felt happy. Remembrance, why do you torture me? The past happiness, the present misery. Homesickness, thou art worse than all the wounds!

It is growing warm, the sun is burning. I open my eyes and I see the same bushes, the same sky, but in broad daylight. And there is my neighbor. Yes, it is a dead Turk. What a giant! I remember him; he is the same I killed. Why did I kill him? Why did he come here? Who is he? Like myself, he may have an old mother looking out for him. And I? And I also. Yes, I should like to change with him. He does not hear; he does not feel the pain in his wounds, languish or thirst. The bayonet pierced his heart right through.

There is a great black hole in his uniform. This was done by me. I did not wait to do it. I did not wish to harm anybody when I went to the war. I did not expect to kill people. I had thought more of exposing my own breast to the enemy's balls. And then? Fool, fool! And this wretched fellah (he wears the Egyptian uniform), his fault it was still less. He had never heard of Russia or Bulgaria. He was told to go, and he went. We attacked, he defended himself. Where is his fault, and why did I kill him? Why does thirst torture me? Who knows what that means? Even when we marched through Roumelia, under a glaring tropical sun, I did not feel the thirst as I feel it now. Oh, if some one would but come!

Good heavens! In his great flask there may still be some water, but how to reach it? It will cost me agonies, but I must try. I begin to crawl. My feet drag. My weakened hands are hardly able to move the lifeless body. There are but a few steps to the dead body, but for me the distance seems endless. I must. My throat is parched and burns like fire. I should die soon without water, but I go on. Every movement is agony. I scream—I scream with sobs. At last I reach the flask. There is water enough to last me until I die. He whom I have killed saves me now. I try to open the flask, but the effort is too great. I lose balance and fall right on the body of the dead Turk. I could smell the odor of decay. I took a long draft. The water was warm, but fresh, and would last me several days. I had read somewhere that a man could live a week without food if he had water. What if I lived several days longer? Our men are gone, the Bulgarians dispersed. There are no roads. Die I must, but instead of three days' suffering I shall suffer a week. Perhaps it would be better to end directly. Near my neighbor lies his gun. I have but to stretch out my arm. One moment and all is finished. Shall I do it, or shall I wait? Deliverance or death? No, I shall have courage. I shall struggle on to the last. If they find me, I am saved. Perhaps my bones are not touched, and then they will cure me. I shall once more see my home, mother and Mary.

O Lord, never let them know the truth! Let them think that I was killed at once.

I am beginning to feel dizzy. My visit to my neighbor has entirely exhausted my strength. It is growing black and beginning to decay. What will become of him later? I can hardly bear the odor, and I am not able to move. The sun scorches my face and my hands. Nothing to cover me. If night would but come! This will be the second, I think.

My thoughts are growing confused.

I must have slept long, for when I awoke it was night. My condition is the same. My wounds hurt. My neighbor, huge and lifeless, is still there.

I cannot help thinking of him. Is it possible that I have left all that is dear and precious to me, that I have come thousands of versts, have starved and frozen and been tormented by heat and thirst, and am now lying here in agony only in order to kill this miserable Turk? Did I accomplish anything else besides this murder?

Murder—murderer! And who? I—I—When I longed to join the army, my mother and sister did not keep me back, although they grieved deeply. I was sorry for them, but, blinded, I refused to see their tears. I did not understand how much I hurt them. Now I do.

If I could but bring back the past! How strange my conduct seemed to our friends.

"Madman, you do not know what you are doing!" they had said. How could they talk like this when our country was in question? Where was the love and patriotism they were constantly extolling? When I aimed at all these hundred virtues, why did they call me madman? I went with thousands of others, some of them like myself, as volunteers. A sharp morning wind stirring the bushes reminds me that this is my third day of suffering. The third! How many more? I am too weak to move away from the dead body. We shall soon be equals. I am thirsty. I shall drink three times a day, morning, noon and night.

The sun has risen. Its great circle, crossed and divided by the boughs of the hawthorn, is red as blood. It will surely be warm today. My neighbor—what will become of him? He is terrible now. His hair is beginning to fall off; his dark, Egyptian skin has become yellow; his face has shrunken so much that the bones are showing. It has burst on one side, and the worms are covering it. What will the sun do with him today? To move him is impossible. I must move farther, however I shall have to suffer for it. But how? I am able to extend my hand and open the flask, but to move my heavy, immovable body! Impossible! It should take me hours to make a step.

The whole morning passes in the effort. The pain is terrible, but what is that to me? I have forgotten how it is to feel well. I have succeeded in reaching the old place, but even here I have the terrible odor of the decaying body, carried to and fro by the wind. It makes me sick. My empty stomach is shrinking. I am beginning to feel spasms. My whole interior turns with the terrible odor, which does not leave me for a moment! I have reached despair, and I weep—weep like an infant. Exhausted, all torn by the thorns of the bush, I feel almost unconscious.

Suddenly—is this a mistake—I hear talking and the stamping of hoofs. I was going to scream, but refrained. If these should be the Turks! Then, to my own suffering, others still greater would be added. I have heard and read how the Turks tear off the skin and burn the wounds. Nothing worse than brutish men! Will it be better to end life in the hands of the Turks or here? But if they should be our men? Oh, these bushes! Why are they so thick? I can hardly see through them! There is one little place like a window which enables me to see in the distance. There seems to be the little brook where we quenched our thirst in the battle, and there is the big stone which was our bridge across the brook. They will surely come this way!

Concluded Tomorrow.
